El vicepresidente nacional de Boca, Guido Fornari, advirtió que si bien en el club "siempre se habla de mejorar los vínculos con los jugadores o con el entorno, por otro lado, hay que ser proactivo". Por ello, el dirigente hizo un llamado a la línea directiva para que, "con el ánimo de los jugadores, trabajen para que lleguen los mejores títulos que están posibles" y de ellos "vayan a lo que lo merezcan". "Si bien en el club siempre se habla de mejorar los vínculos con los jugadores o con el entorno, por otro lado, hay que ser proactivo", dijo Fornari. En diálogo con El Litoral de Salta, el dirigente definió que "el nivel que se ha puesto en diciembre se mantendrá en enero, algo que se va a ver en las actuaciones que podremos observar en casa y afuera" y aseguró que "ese nivel se le va a atribuir a los jugadores". Este miércoles, Boca tuvo el último partido de la Supercopa Sudamericana que el equipo se jugó en Cincinnati y eso llevó a Fornari a afirmar que el club "lleva una organización que la más importante que otra, tiene que ver con la utilidad de nuestros jugadores, y nuestro equipo".

Cape Haze and Coal Harbour are among 40 special sites in Hong Kong up for a review by conservationists, as part of a plan to improve the city's environmental standards. The World Wildlife Fund, a non-government organisation, has called for a review of the Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) process, to ensure the city is doing enough to safeguard its natural assets. The review, which coincides with World Environment Day, will focus on the 40 sites on the city's conservation green list, published in 2017. These are important areas that have the potential to become sites of outstanding natural beauty (SONB). The final list of 30 sites will be published in April, and the process is being run by the city's conservation department. The list is based on a combination of factors, including SONBs' ecological, geological, historical, cultural and aesthetic values. According to the WWF, there has been a steady increase in the number of SONBs on the green list for the past 10 years, and the total number has increased by 13 to 40. But the organisation, which contributed to the list, says the process for identifying them could be better. It said one reason was that it is unclear whether the priority areas are up to scratch, in terms of ecology and conservation. 'A consistent stance' Many of the sites on the list are particularly important in terms of their natural features or role in the food chain, such as the natural forests in the Central and Western districts. Such areas can provide a home and a feeding ground for both humans and wildlife. Cynthia Chow Mongkwit, director of planning and implementation at the city's conservation department, said: "There are about 70 threatened ecological sites in the city, but we know very little about them, about their conservation status and about the circumstances of their protection, if any." Dr Chow said the department is aware that some sites are not recognised as SONBs for instance because they are not significant to the food chain, or because they are not protected under the law. The WWF said it would like to see a review so the city can make sure that the sites on the list are properly protected. It said this would improve the situation of local species, such as the Chinese red-vented bulbuls, and the golden snub-nosed monkey. The
